Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks in northwest Wyoming protect unique natural wonders that are known worldwide. They are the vacation destination for thousands each week. An alternative to staying in either Park while still enjoying their attractions is discovering the camping opportunities available in one of the nearby National Forests. Within 75 miles, there are 75 campgrounds in seven National Forests and three states that encircle Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks. Camping in National Forest campgrounds, which are less crowded than those in the Parks, can enhance your whole experience of this area. Whether you camp in a tent or a recreational vehicle (RV), there are campgrounds in U.S. National Forests to satisfy the needs of most campers. The U.S. National Forest Campground Guide - Camping Near Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks, describes such campgrounds. All of the campgrounds were personally visited and researched by the authors of this Guide. There are more than 50 items of information for each campground, narrative descriptions (including authors' anecdotes), maps displaying the relative location of the campgrounds, and quick look-up tables to help in the selection of a campground. In addition, there are sidebars throughout the Guide containing useful information about camping, the forests, things to do, and the authors' experiences.
