Hypergate Al Schneider

Hypergate is a coins across routine. Two copper coins simulate two hypergates. Three silver half dollars pass through the hypergates one at a time. A copper hypergate is held in each hand. The three silvers are put into one hand with a hypergate. One silver slips into the gate and magically travels to the other gate. This is repeated three times. This is a sleight-of-hand routine and requires a special gimmick common to magic. Skill is required. The book contains many pictures and fine detail about the performance of the moves. The routine can be performed slowly giving the audience every opportunity to see exactly what is happening. The routine can be repeated without worry that seeing it again will hinder the magical effect. The routine is powerful enough to withstand repetition. If you master this routine, you will do it every show. You will be considered a sleight-of-hand master. This routine uses the latest high tech magic available. Al began developing these kinds of routines in 1970. Hypergate is the result of this long study and is at the top of its class. Note: This routine is identical to the Stargate routine in Al Schneider Magic published by L&L.
